18th Wing welcomes new commander

Moulton returns to Kadena 15 years later, takes command

By Staff Sgt. Jason Lake
18th Wing Public Affairs

A 27-year Airman, F-15 pilot and former Shogun took command of the 18th Wing during an assumption of command ceremony Tuesday morning.

Brig. Gen. Harold "Punch" Moulton II received the 18th Wing guidon from Lt. Gen. Bruce Wright, 5th Air Force and U.S. Forces Japan commander, in front of nearly 800 Team Kadena members at the 961st Airborne Air Control Squadron hangar. General Moulton and his wife Kathleen left Kadena in 1991 after a three-year tour with the wing's 12th Tactical Fighter Squadron.

"Nearly 15 years ago, we departed Okinawa with some sadness," General Moulton said about his first Okinawa tour as a major. "We certainly were not ready then to leave this beautiful island, our Okinawan friends, and the warrior ethos of the 18th Wing. That's why this day is so special to us. We've been anxious to get back."

(Right) Brig. Gen. Harold Moulton II accepts the 18th Wing guidon from Lt. Gen. Bruce Wright, 5th Air Force and U.S. Forces Japan commander, to assume command of the 18th Wing Tuesday. General Moulton returned to Kadena to become the 18th Wing commander 15 years after serving as an F-15 Eagle pilot in the base's 12th Tactical Fighter Squadron.

Looking first at the four wing aircraft rolled-out for the ceremony, then to the five group formations—Airmen from operations, maintenance, mission support, medical and civil engineer—the general told the crowd he was impressed by the wing's "awesome display of combat airpower" and the accomplishments of its Airmen.

"The reason the Shoguns are great is because of the men and women on this powerful team," he said. "You are our most valuable resource and our greatest power. These are also vitally important times for our nation and Kadena is a vitally important part of our ability to respond."

General Moulton said Kadena Airmen need to stay mission focused to continue support on the War on Terrorism.

"We remain a nation at war, and the men and women of the 18th Wing are key warriors in that conflict," he said. "We will focus on winning at every turn, teaming with our joint and coalition partners, providing leadership at all levels, and setting the vision to guide our team to future success."

"We'll deliver decisive air dominance, responsive global mobility, superior airborne command and control, and crucial search and rescue, along with the full scope of expeditionary combat support," said the general.

Taking the reigns of the Air Force's largest combat wing is an enormous operational challenge, but General Wright said the new wing commander comes "with a wealth of experience and familiarity with command."

Island officials apply new youth supervision guidelines island-wide

Compiled from staff reports

Military officials from installations throughout Okinawa recently agreed on youth supervision guidelines for all Status of Forces Agreement personnel on Okinawa.

The youth supervision guidelines include details on what age groups can be left home alone, in a car, or in public areas unsupervised.

Sharon Gunselman, 18th Mission Support Group deputy commander, explained that because each installation has different traffic situations, the policy for children walking to school varies based on each installation commander's direction.

She also reminds parents and guardians that children under age 18 are subject to a nightly curfew beginning at 10 p.m. weekdays and midnight weekends and holidays.

Tax center opens for business

By Staff Sgt. Jason Lake
18th Wing Public Affairs

With the April 17 tax-filing deadline quickly approaching, volunteers at the Kadena Tax Center are geared up for another season of lending their tax-preparation talents to people here.

The tax center opened for business Tuesday offering free services to all Status of Forces Agreement personnel and military retirees.

The center is located on Wilkins Street in Bldg. 1460 behind Eagle Hardware. The tax center is open through June 16 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday through Friday for walk-in service. After June 16 the tax center will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on an appointment only basis.

Leslie Best, Kadena's chief tax advisor, said more than 130 people – with experience ranging from two to seven years – have stepped up to help customers in need.

Customers should bring all pertinent information needed to file their return, including W-2s, any 1099 statements for interest and dividends, and social security cards for the taxpayer and all dependents.

Taxpayers with foreign spouses working on the local economy should know the total foreign earned income, and have their spouse's tax identification number.

To apply for a tax identification number, customers can get a W-7 application form at the Kadena Tax Center, or download it at www.irs.gov [Jan. 2006 version]. Once the W-7 form is complete, submit it to the Internal Revenue Service office in Bensalem, Pa., with the tax return and all other required documentation [address and requirements listed on the back of the W-7].

Integrity can prevent accidents

By Lt. Col. Alan Barys
18th Wing Chief of Safety

I have always viewed integrity as doing the right thing even when no one is looking. If we start to ignore the little things when no one is looking, we subconsciously create a new base-line for ourselves. Then we start to ignore bigger things and this can lead to an accident or worse. Additionally, you never know who may be watching and learning from what you do.

When you are driving around the base early in the morning or late at night and there is no other traffic, do you stop at that stop sign or red light? On Kadena, we must stop at a red light before we make a left turn. At 4 a.m., only slowing down before turning may have worked for you, but now your habit is to not come to a complete stop. Try the same thing at 7:30 a.m. and you will probably hit another car, or worse—a jogger trying to cross at the crosswalk. The reason for stopping completely is to give you time to look across the intersection for cars that have a green arrow, to your right, and for people about to use the crosswalk. If this is not in your habit pattern you are setting yourself up for trouble.

"How do your children know which of your rules to follow if they see you arbitrarily choose which traffic rules you will follow?"

There are unsafe driving habits that I have seen lead to bigger accidents. One of the most dangerous areas to drive is the parking lot between the base exchange and commissary. There are always many cars looking for that "best" parking spot. Once you see it opening up, your eyes are glued to it and you accelerate to get there first. What you may not see is the other person across the way backing out or the other person that just walked out from between two minivans. The other side of the parking lot is empty so you cut across all the empty parking spots focused on the exit and don't see the other car doing the same thing from the other side of the parking lot. You think this only affects you and you can handle it, but what about the people around you?

Your habits have the potential to affect other vehicles or influence your children. When you are following another car and the vehicle in the adjacent lane puts on the turn signal to enter your lane, do you speed up to close the gap forcing them to enter your lane behind you? What do you think the other driver will do next time? He'll probably not turn on his signal and just swerve into your lane forcing you to slow down abruptly.

A new person coming to Kadena may see you cut a few corners or leave your car running as you run in the post office to check your mail. They in turn think it's no big deal to do the same then decide that's it's acceptable to also have one or two drinks and drive. How do your children know which of your rules to follow if they see you arbitrarily choose which traffic rules you will follow?

Unfortunately, this line of thinking usually ends up with someone getting hurt. Don't fall victim to the line of reasoning that it's alright to ignore some of the little rules while no one is looking—you don't know where that line of reasoning will take you.

ACTION LINE

The 18th Wing is very interested in ideas that can make Kadena an even better place to live, work and play. If you have a concern that you have been unable to resolve through normal chains of command, then we'll look into it. Although not required, it's better to give commanders, first sergeants or the agencies with which you have the concern the opportunity to correct the situation first. When that fails, send us an e-mail. Include your name and telephone number so someone can get back to you, and a brief summary of your concern.

Cellphone users to walk if they drive and talk

One of the most important elements of the PACAF mission is the welfare and safety of our Airmen and their families.

Use of cell phones impairs driving ability and masks or prevents recognition of emergency signals, alarms, announcements, the approach of vehicles and human speech.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, distracted driving contributes to 25 percent of all traffic accidents.

These accidents have a serious negative impact on our families, unit morale and combat readiness.

Effective immediately, vehicle operators on all PACAF installations and operators of government owned vehicles, both on and off-installations, will not use cell phones unless the vehicle is safely parked or they are using a hands-free device.

Gen. Paul V. Hester
Pacific Air Forces commander

Violation of this policy will result in a written warning until Feb. 28, 2006.

Beginning on March 1, 2006, a violation of this nature will result in the loss of on-base driving privileges for 30 days.

This policy applies to all uniformed military personnel, Department of Defense civilians, contractors, family members and any other non-DOD drivers operating a motor vehicle on all PACAF installations.

This policy will remain in effect until cancelled or superseded in writing.

Master Sgt. Mike Harris, 18th Logistics Readiness Squadron, briefs NCOs during the four-day NCO enhancement seminar on Jan. 27. Sergeant Harris talked about Airmen at war, the importance of mission readiness, and how NCOs must set the standard and lead by example. To enroll in the next seminar, call the McDaniel Center for Professional Development at 632-STAY.

DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE: Did you know? Almost 80 percent of all alcohol-related fatal crashes were between midnight and 3 a.m. Plan ahead or call Airmen Against Drunk Driving at 634-2233.

DRAGON BOAT VOLUNTEERS: Men and women are needed for teams that will participate in this year's Naha Dragon Boat Race scheduled for May 5. Volunteers must be Airmen, civilian employees or family members over the age of 18. For more information, call 634-0562.

DIRECT TO HOME SATELLITES: Kadena's Furnishings Management is currently issuing American Forces Network direct-to-home satellites to active duty military and Defense Department civilians residing off base. On-base housing and dorm residents, contractors, local national employees, reservists and retirees are excluded from this service. To order the service, visit www.kadena.af.mil to fill out an application online. Applications can be e-mailed to fmo@kadena.af.mil, or turned in to the Kadena housing office. Call 632-4206 for more information.

BIBLE STUDY: Protestant Women of the Chapel Winter Bible Study sessions run every Tuesday until April 4. Bible studies are held from 9 to 11 a.m. and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Kadena Chapel 1. All women are invited to the PWOC Winter Retreat, February 17-19 at the Grand Mer Hotel. For more information, go to <http://home.attmil.ne.jp/a/pwoc2>.

FREE BLACK HISTORY MONTH MOVIES: The African American Culture Association celebrates Black History Month with the screening of various free movies at the Schilling Community Center and Jack's Place (near Gate 1). Below are some of the screenings:

- Schilling: 6:30 p.m. tonight – Princess Tam Tam and Black History Makers; 6:30 p.m. Thursday – Emperor Jones and Scandalize My Name; 6:30 p.m. Feb. 16 – She's Gotta Have It and Lady Day Sings.

There will also be screenings at Camp Foster's Globe and Anchor. Call Bernie Price at 633-5350 for more information.

MORE RISNER PARKING: A new parking lot has opened next to the Risner gym on Adams Road.

DIRECT DIALING FROM OFF BASE: A new feature, Direct Inward Dial, allows off base callers to dial directly to a Kadena phone number. Below are the corresponding numbers:

630-XXXX = 098-960-XXXX

632-XXXX = 098-962-XXXX

633-XXXX = 098-959-XXXX

634-XXXX = 098-961-XXXX

Callers may receive a busy signal during high traffic hours.

SPOUSES ORIENTATION: Air Force spouses with less than five years affiliation with the military can attend the Heartlink spouses orientation Feb. 22 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Kadena Family Support Center, Bldg. 99. Heartlink provides valuable tools for spouses to adapt to the military lifestyle. The event will feature guest speakers, games, and door prizes. Lunch and breakfast will be provided. Childcare assistance will also be available, if needed. Call 634-3366 for more info and to register. Registration is required by Feb. 10.

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN: Knowing you are guaranteed a lifetime income as the result of a successful career is one of the best feelings about retiring from the military.

But what about your spouse and/or dependent children? If you die, what guarantees do they have? Enrolling in the SBP prior to retiring will ensure they will have guaranteed income after your death. Additional details are available by calling your SBP counselor, Glenn Rucker at 634-3228.

HOUSING SURVEY: Base family housing residents should soon start receiving a survey from CEL & Associates, Inc. All residents are requested to take this housing survey and provide input to identify areas that need improvement. Responses are confidential and the data collected will be compiled and used to directly affect the quality of future housing. The survey takes approximately five minutes to complete.

EMERGENCY GUIDE ONLINE: The Kadena Emergency Actions Guide has been updated and is available online at <https://www.kadena.af.mil> from a government computer, or www.kadena.af.mil/okinawa.htm from home. The guide outlines steps to take during and after an enemy attack, typhoon, natural disaster, or major accident. Residents in low-lying areas should also review the section on tsunamis. For more information, call the 18th Civil Engineer Squadron Readiness Flight at 634-4404.

SUMMER HIRE BRIEFING: The civilian personnel office will present summer program guidelines and explain the application process March 4 at the Banyan Tree Club at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tentative employment dates begin June 26 and end Aug. 18. Students must preposition a resume on the Air Force Personnel Center Employment site and self-nominate for consideration. Family members and at least one of their parents should attend one of the scheduled briefings and bring a copy of the sponsor's orders, passport and social security card. For more info, call 634-1358.

AIR FORCE AID GRANTS: The Air Force Aid Society can help dependent children of active, retired and deceased Air Force members apply for the General Henry H. Arnold Education Grant Program. The Society recently increased the individual award amount under the program to $2,000. For more information, visit www.afas.org. The deadline for applications is March 10.

TROOPS AND SPOUSES TO TEACHERS: Troops and Spouses to Teachers Briefings will be held March 15 at 8:30 a.m. in the Kadena High School auditorium. Individual appointments will also be taken after the briefing at the Kadena education center, Bldg. 59. Representatives from Florida, Michigan and Indiana will brief, and offer individual counseling sessions from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Kadena education center. For more information, or to make an appointment, call the Kadena education center (Building 59) at 634-1500.

LOST AND FOUND: The 18th Security Forces Squadron is currently maintaining items of lost and found property, such as bicycles, billfolds, keys and watches. To claim lost items, call Security Forces Investigations at 634-4643, Monday through Friday, between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The Okinawa Perspective

The following is a synopsis of articles that appeared recently in Japanese newspapers.

- Members of the Liberal Democratic Party Okinawa held a general conference Jan. 30 to confirm that they will not participate in a prefectural mass rally scheduled for Mar. 5. The rally has been organized to protest the relocation of Marine Corps Air Station Futenma to northern Okinawa. A representative from the LDP said,

"We have different opinions about the relocation and some of our party members support the Japan-U.S. Security Treaty."

- Three officials from the Defense Facilities Administration Agency were arrested in Tokyo Monday on suspicion of bid-rigging several upcoming government projects. The arrest of senior DFMA officials is expected to undermine public confidence in the agency and will have adverse effects on the ongoing U.S. force transformation talks. DFMA is the Japanese government agency in charge of consultations with base-hosting communities.

- Kadena Air Base implemented a curfew that began Jan. 28 at midnight. The curfew, which applies to all Airmen assigned to Okinawa, had the effect of reducing the usual amount of U.S. military patrons at clubs and restaurants on Gate 2 Street in Okinawa City over the weekend. A woman who owns a restaurant outside gate 2 said, "Every time a military member causes an incident, they implement a curfew. It impacts our income. Drunken Japanese people are worse than drunk U.S. servicemen." Yoshio Kuba, President of the Koza Kuko Street Association, stated "It [the curfew] impacts the local economy, but we are not in the position to oppose the decision."

- Several committees under the Economy, Trade and Industry Ministry and the Environment Ministry approved on Monday a draft final report proposing that beginning in 2007 shoppers be charged for plastic or paper bags distributed at supermarkets and other stores.

On-base: 10 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. Sunday night through Thursday morning; Midnight to 5:30 a.m. weekends, federal holidays and PACAF Family Days.

TAXES

For those who purchased or sold stock during 2005, the tax center needs to know when and how much stock was purchased or sold prior to filing at the tax center.

E-filers can expect to see refund deposits in their account in approximately a week if done through direct deposit, or 3-4 weeks for a check to arrive in the mail. If a return is mailed to the Internal Revenue Service on paper, filers should expect to get a check within 6-8 weeks.

Ms. Best added that the mailing address for overseas tax returns changed this year. The new mailing address this year is: Internal Revenue Service; Austin, Texas 73301-0215

Servicemembers stationed overseas receive an automatic extension to June 15 for returns, but the April 17 deadline still applies to those who owe taxes. If the payment is late, the balance owed will accumulate interest and penalties.

For servicemembers serving in a combat zone, the deadline for paying taxes or filing a refund is extended at least 180 days after the last day of service in a combat zone, or the last day of any continuous qualified hospitalization for injury from combat service. An additional extension day is granted for every day between entering a combat zone and April 17. For example, if a servicemember entered a combat zone Jan. 1, then three-and-a-half months would be added to the 180-day extension.

For more information, call the tax center at 634-7784 or e-mail tax.center@kadena.af.mil.

General Moulton recently led the Defense Department's search and rescue efforts in the greater New Orleans area as part of Joint Task Force-Katrina.

General Moulton, the former director of Standing Joint Force Headquarters-North, U.S. Northern Command at Peterson Air Force Base, Colo., said he's also looking forward to strengthening ties between Kadena and the local community.

"As our two nations continue to build on our decades-long partnership, we know that success is really built on the foundations of our cooperation and understanding here, where people live, work and play," he said.

The general also addressed more than 50 local dignitaries in attendance, including the mayors of Kadena Town and Okinawa City, and prefecture and government of Japan officials.

"We are committed to working with you, our Okinawan hosts and neighbors, to forge new friendships and advance cooperation between our countries," the general said.

As the 18th Wing commander, General Moulton is charged with leading more than 5,600 Airmen supporting a fleet of 54 F-15 Eagles, 15 KC-135 Stratotankers, 2 E-3 Sentries (AWACS) and 10 HH-60 Pave Hawks valued at more than $4 billion. The Air Force Academy graduate is also a command pilot with more than 3,900 flying hours in the F-15, F-5, T-38, C-130, C-12 and E-3.

PACAF/HQ converts to A-staff

By Maj. Bradley Jessmer
PACAF Public Affairs

Time and necessity bring change, and change is in the air for Headquarters Pacific Air Forces, which will convert to a new command structure and re-designate most headquarters offices by April 1.

The current designations of two, three and four letters will be replaced by an "A" followed by a number. This system, ranging from A1 to A9, will bring standardization throughout all Air Force commands.

"As you can imagine, many organizations are involved in this process," said Maj. Eric Stubbs, Pacific Air Forces Wartime and Organizations Branch Chief. "My role has been to facilitate the development of PACAF's proposed organization structure codes which we submitted to air staff in December and continue to refine."

According to a memo dated Nov. 10, 2005, from Air Force Chief of Staff General T. Michael Moseley, the plan was for all commands to initiate the A-staff structure Feb. 1, with full implementation by May 1.

The memo further states that although there may be some variances between the commands and their unique missions, the intent is to standardize the A-staff wherever possible and align all headquarters' staffs "horizontally and vertically." This change will affect all commands, warfighting headquarters and the air staff.

"The air staff has been working to develop a consensus among the MAJCOMs and functionals in order to determine the final standard organization structure codes which will be used by all major commands," Major Stubbs said.

According to Major Stubbs, the phrase "aligning the phone books" has been used to describe this process.

"In the not too distant future, PACAF/A1MX will be able to contact Air Mobility Command/A1MX and know that they have reached their functional counterpart at AMC," he said. "These changes will improve our ability to develop doctrine and instructions, and streamline our ability to perform the mission."

Not only will this change help communication between the field and headquarters, but according to Janet Watkins, PACAF chief of Manpower and Organization, it will help with joint operations.

"The new structure will give us better interoperability with other MAJCOMs as well as our sister services who are already using this type of system," Watkins said. She added that even though this will bring a change to PACAF's structure, it will not affect manpower numbers at the headquarters.

The new designations for PACAF are:
A1 - Manpower and Personnel (formerly DP/XPM)

A2 - Intelligence (formerly IN)

A3 - Air, Space and Information (formerly DO)

A4 - Logistics (formerly LG)

A5 - Plans and Requirements (formerly DO)

A6 - Communications (formerly CS)

A7 - Installation and Mission Support (formerly CE, SVS, SF, LGC)

A8 - Strategic Plans and Programs (formerly XP)

A9 - Analyses, Assessments and Lessons Learned
